Class History

We, the seniors of 1953, have come to the end of our high school career but we have not reached our goal, so we shall continue to strive for achievement.

In the year nineteen hundred and forty-nine we entered high school. In our freshman year we had four teachers, Mrs. Foster, Mr. Foster, Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Polk, because of our large enrollment. Two events stand out in our memory of our freshman year. Our four ninth grade Christmas parties and our visit to the Reid Gold Mine. Considering all things, we had a successful term.

When we became sophomores our pupils had decreased to 72. In this year we were all proud of Flora Ingram, who won the "Miss Tigerette" crown. Our band received their first uniforms in this year 1950, and went to Washington to march in the Safety Patrol Parade. Edward Lawing, William Boger, Elzavan Plunkett, Margaret Miller, Berlyn Goodman, Mary Troy Murphy, Betty Roddy and Mary Clarke were among the striking paraders.

Fortunately, we started our junior year under the same instructors we had in our sophomore year, Mr. Banner and Miss Edwards. We had a lot of work to do besides our academic work, because we were to give the seniors a prom, which we did and with much success. We were the first class to have an orchestra at a Junior-Senior prom. We were also the first class to inaugurate Sadie Hawkins Day, which was planned by the class reporter, Troy DeBose. Billy Smith was the most outstanding player in the basketball tournament; he brought home two trophies and one certificate. Margaret Asbury won the "I Speak for Democracy" contest and Mary Frances Caldwell won the Junior Oratorical contest. Last but not least, our chief marshals for the graduating class were Loretta Johnson and Mary Caldwell. Again we had a successful year.

In September, 1952, the class registered for the final surge toward graduation under the leadership of Mrs. E. O. James. On Saturday, October 4, we were invited to A. & T. College in Greensboro, N. C. We were entertained to the highest and we enjoyed ourselves immensely. With Robert Anderson as our president, we feel that we have climbed successfully to the last step of the ladder. We love this year best of all because it means so much to us all.

Farewell, dear Logan, we will never forget you and your guardianship. We will try with all our ability to represent you well wherever we go; and we will never forget that "Nothing succeeds like success."

Curtis Phifer

Class Prophecy '53

Dec. 6, 1963. Having finished all of my designing commitments on window displays in the Galloway chain stores in New York, I now find that it is my privilege and pleasure to visit all of these same stores in almost every part of the world. Leaving my office three doors from the boss', I'm not surprised to see Thomas Barber, who is business manager of the store. Passing through the outer office, I stop to speak to stenographers, Ida Asbury, Margaret Scott, Dorothy Stinson and Beatrice Bost. While standing there I see Annie McMillon, chief seamstress in the dress department, and Alice Hough, another seamstress, coming out of the boss' office from a conference. He must have sent for them because they couldn't have gotten past the boss' private secretary, Mary Clarke, who could charm a snake saying, "I'm sorry, Mr. Galloway's not in."

Leaving the newly constructed building, I turn to admire the work of the architects, Lester Drye and Walter Cooke. As I'm walking down Fifth Avenue a window displaying feminine attire of startling design catches my eye and I know that it must be the work of Loretta Johnson, who owns the exclusive shop. Hurrying on to Broadway I see a billboard advertising a new movie, entitled "Jungle Rhythms," starring that sensational dancer, Mary Murphy. At Carnegie Hall I see that Margaret Miller, Primer Ballerina, will dance the "Dying Swan" tonight. At the Metropolitan Opera House I read that concert artists, Elise Chapman, Margaret Asbury and William Kiser, will appear at a future date.

Going home to Harlem I stop at Harlem Hospital, where I get just a glimpse of nurses Margie Locke, Louise Phillips, Julia Lawing, Myrtle Boger, Helen Steele, Mary Williams and Shirley White taking orders from head nurse Berlyn Goodman. Pauline Tolbert heads pediatrics in this same hospital. Passing by the pharmacy I notice Elzavan Plunkett ordering his co-workers, Robert Anderson and Frank Bost about. In the laboratory Betty Roddy, one of the nation's leading laboratory technicians, is doing a magnificent job. Turning away from the lab I encounter Earl Scott, M.D., coming out of the mental ward talking seriously with Edward Lawing, who is the nation's leading psychiatrist.

My next stop is Grand Central Station, where I am surprised to see Fannie Jordan and Helen Brewer in the ticket agent's office. Speaking to them, I learn that they have only recently finished business school and that this is their first job. Buying my ticket, I am surprised to see Curtis Phifer, star player of the Cleveland Browns, with his manager, Matthew Holmes, returning South after a very successful season. Stopping at the Galloway chain store in Chicago, I see a large funeral home with a sign that reads "Try OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN," proprietor Jason Scott. Farther down the street I see a sign saying that the Harlem Globetrotters with their star player, Billy Smith, are appearing here tonight.

From Chicago, business takes me to Concord and the Galloway chain store there. Anxious to see the changes here, I finish business early and go on a tour of the town. Still in the up-town district, I see a new ultra-modern beauty salon jointly owned by Valeria Johnson, Eva Reid and Mary Grady, who create all of the new hair styles. On Union Street I see none other than William Boger, a captain in the Army, who is making it his career. In the rural section I see one of the nation's largest farms, owned by John I. Long. Next I visit Logan School, where I see Mary Caldwell, teacher of Music and Foreign Languages, and Flora Ingram, teacher of Math. Among other changes, I see a new gym and a garage with two buses owned by the school.

It's now time for me to travel on, and if the rest of my trip is as successful as this part the company will be very happy. I am happy too, having seen all of my classmates living happy, successful lives, exhibiting that old spirit of '53, "Nothing succeeds like success."

Troy DeBose

MISS

OF

'50

Miss Flora Lee Ingram, 12th grade student, was crowned "Miss Tigerette" at the Homecoming game the year 1950, under the sponsorship of Mr. J. C. Banner. She was Logan's Queen in the Concord Christmas Parade, December, 1950. Miss Ingram is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Ingram.

Last Will and Testament

The Class Will '53

The Class of 1953, being of sound mind, do make their last will and testament in hopes that it will be useful to those we leave behind.

To the Principal, we leave our many thanks and appreciation for the hard years of cooperation he has given to us.

To the faculty we leave our gratitude for their years of ceaseless effort in trying to educate and polish us.

To the Junior Class we leave Mrs. E. O. James, whom we shall always be fond of.

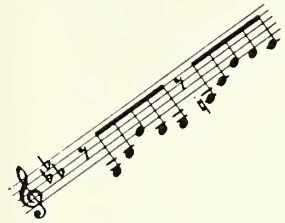

Mary Louise Clarke wills her letter girl suit to Betty Jean Johnson.
Louise Phillips wills her thinness to Wayne Stowe.
Helen Steele wills her ability to guard to Daisy Steele.
Mary Troy Murphy wills her majorette suit and antics to Mary Covington.
Earl Scott leaves his ability to beat a drum to Edward Roddy.
Pauline Talbert leaves her shortness to Robert Wallace.
Lorene Banks wills her temper to her sister, Elnora Banks.
Elise Chapman bequeaths her dancing ability to Emma Hicklin.
Margie Locke leaves her cheerleading ability to Lorene Bruner.
Frances Saddler wills her ability to dance to James Rounds.
Loretta Johnson wills her alertness and sweet disposition to her cousin, Betty Johnson.
Berlyne Goodman leaves her letter girl suit to Josephine Asbury.
Helen Brewer wills her quietness to her sister, Ernestine Brewer.
Edward Lawings leaves his friendliness to Clarence Handy.
Betty Roddy wills her letter girl suit to Barbara Oglesby.
Myrtle Boger leaves her punctuality to Lois Johnson.
Annie McMillion wills her talkativeness and ready laughter to Ruth Govan.
Margaret Miller bequeaths her ability to play basketball to Mary Lee Kiser.
Mary Frances Caldwell leaves her oratorical ability to Vivian Scott.
Curtis Phiefer leaves his ability to play football to Richard Ford.
Margaret Asbury wills her pleasing personality to Adell Freeman.
Robert Anderson leaves his ability to dance to Robert Wallace.
Frank Bost wills his kindness to Clarence Bell.
Thomas Barber wills his unconcernedness to George Grissom.
Shirley White leaves her ability to play basketball to Lois Drye.
Fannie Mae Jordan wills her cheerfulness to Aggie Knox.
Mary Nell Williams leaves her ability to sing to Margaret Bell.
Flora Ingram wills her chewing gum to her sister, Harriette Ingram.
Jacob Shipp wills his nice manners to John L. Sims.
Eva Mae Reid leaves her shortness to Willie McDaniel.
Marie Roseman wills her ability to get along with people to Ivey Stafford.
William Boger wills his singing ability to Billy Ray Young.
Lester Drye wills his ability to drive a bus to Harry Black.
Beatrice Bost leaves her personal appearance to her sister, Betty Bost.
Ida Mae Asbury wills her quietness to Uretha Lee.

We hereby declare this to be our last will by Margie Locke under the authority of the Senior Class and signed November 19th, 1952.

Class Song

Class Song '53
(Tune: Aud Wiedersehen)

Dear Logan High, our Logan High,
Our time has come to part.
We'll love you still as years go by,
We'll cherish you in our hearts.
We'll honor you 'cause you've brought us through
Many hardships, tears and strife.
You taught us, yes, and now we know
The things we'll need in life.

Now Logan High, our Logan High,
This is our last adieu.
You set us a-sail, and we shouldn't fail
Success we want that, too.
In all our aims, we'll attain our goals.
Whether they are far or nigh.
We can't say adieu as everlasting too,
'Cause, we'll meet again, Bye and Bye.
Hum, hum, hum,etc.

Mary Frances Caldwell

Class Poem

We, the seniors of '53,
Have strived for a certain goal,
To be the pride of our school,
Its honor to uphold.

For four years now, we've done our best,
To make these years a great success,
And now that our goal has come into view,
We can record our mistakes few.

As freshmen we were frivolous,
Boisterous and loud.
This was the opinion expressed of us,
By the upper-classmen crowd.

As sophomores we were quieter.
A change was taking place.
We had begun to realize
That life was not a race.

Our junior year we had affairs,
Orations and the prom.
Then we began to think of
That great day yet to come.

As seniors, we are dignified,
Poised, assured and proud.
Proud of our record and our school,
Its praises we'll sing loud.

O Logan High, our Logan High,
Departing time is here,
From scenes as long familiar,
From things that we hold dear.

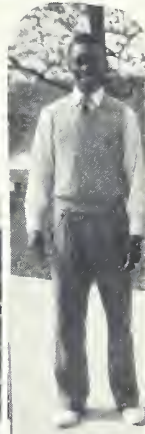

Now we want to thank you
For all you've done for us,
For the knowledge that you gave us,
That can never fade or rust.

In future years we'll remember,
The lessons that were taught,
And never can we ignore,
The changes you have wrought.
So now as we must say good bye,
And leave you with a sigh,
We never will forget you,
Dear Logan High.
